Dear TXAPA Members and Industry Partners,

As TXAPA continues to double down on protecting and growing our market, it is essential that we communicate our message with clarity, consistency, and the highest possible level of quality. To that end, I am pleased to share that we are shifting gears to a new publishing partner for Texas Asphalt Magazine.

Beginning with our upcoming issues, Texas Asphalt Magazine will be published in partnership with The Wyman Company, a firm with deep experience producing high-quality, mission-driven publications. This change reflects our commitment to elevating the magazine as a strategic tool, one that advances our narrative and strengthens advocacy for asphalt pavement across the state.

Under this new partnership, the magazine will place an increased emphasis on meaningful, relevant content that supports our industry: educational features, success stories from our members and partners in the field, and pieces that clearly articulate the value of asphalt pavement to owners, agencies, and decision-makers. At the same time, the publication will continue to drive strong statewide distribution for our advertisers, which remains—now and always—an exclusive benefit of TXAPA membership.

The Wyman Company is our new publishing partner, and we encourage you to think of them as your partner as well. We ask for your support of this evolution by staying engaged with the magazine and by ensuring your company is represented in the pages of the premier—and only—asphalt pavement publication in Texas.

We are excited about this next chapter and confident it will strengthen Texas Asphalt Magazine as a powerful voice for our industry.

Sincerely,

Harold C. Mullen, CEO
